editorially discussing the possibilities of a conflict between Russia and Japan, says:

"It is idle to deny that there is danger of new complications. Nevertheless, we think peace will be preserved, and trust that Russia will give satisfaction to Japan in Corea, thus removing the danger of a rupture."

While holding these views, the Statist will devote a column of its financial news to considering how a Russo-Japanese war would affect the money markets. It says that Russian securities would fall in Paris, which would possibly be able to sell a fair amount of them in New York. After this, prices would largely depend upon the course of the war and whether other countries took part. Russian credit, the Statist will say, might possibly fall very low.

VIEWS OF A DIPLOMAT.

New York, March 23 .- Mr. Takahira the Japanese minister, is not prepared to discuss the attitude of his government toward Russia, says the Wash-ington correspondent of the Herald. In response to a question, however, he said that with respect to Corea there is no dispute between Japan and Russia Another diplomat who is equally well informed regarding affairs in Japan thinks the situation is more serious than is generally believed.

"Great excitement prevails in Japan," he said, "over Russia's efforts to strengthen her hold on Manchuria. As originally drawn, the treaty regarding Manchuria was flagrantly in violation of the declarations which Russia made last summer, When infor-mation regarding the negotiation of the convention reached the Japanese gov-ernment it immediately addressed in quiries to the powers as to their views, indicating by this action its opposition to the conventon. Learning of the views of the powers, Russia made modifica-tions. Examination of the modified convention showed that it was still inimi-cal to Japanese interests and another note was addressed to the powers which brought out the fact that there was general opposition to Russia's ac tion, Japan will not be satisfied unless the treaty is withdrawn, or at least so modified that the status quo ante in Manchuria will be restored.

"How far the Japanese government will go in its objection no one can say. I do not believe the Japanese government itself has made up its mind. But I do know that if the treaty is signed Japan will lodge a vigorous protest. Great Britain, Germany and the United States disapprove of the Manchuria convention. Even France regards it as in conflict with the original declaration made by the powers, including Russia. Great Britain will support Japan in case of war. The United States will morally approve Japan's opposition. Germany will naturally try to get benefrom the struggle without drawn into it. The exchange of notes that has occurred does not necessarily m an that Japan wants a free hand. In fact, I should think that before engaging in war with Russia, Japan would want to know where her friends stand.' ENGLISH FOREIGN OFFICE PES-SIMISTIC.

London, March 22 .- The foreign office takes a pessimistic view of the situa-tion in the east in spite of the settle-ment of the Tien Tsin question, and en ertains grave fears that the relations between Japan and Russia may shortly reach the danger point.

Judging from information obtained in various official quarters in London, Japan has confided to at least some of the nowers her determination to oppose at all costs any secret agreements made between Russia and China, by which the former could secure territorial or other advantages contiguous to Corea.

New York, March 23 .-- A special to the Herald from Washington says: Serious embarrassment has caused the administration and the development of the Philippines has been retarded by the legislation prohibiting the cutting of timber on the public lands of the archipelago. As the for-ests are on public lands the government, under a strict interpretation of law, will be unable to authorize the felling of a tree to provide the planks necessary for the construction of a new house or the repairing of an old one. All this time I was suffering from dyspepsia from the improper food I was eating at the restaurant. One day I saw a package of Grape-Nuts at the restaurant and tried it with good, rich cream. The dish took my fancy at once. After a few lunches at midnight I noted an improvement in my feelings, and was able to work with less fatigue. USED GOVERNMENT ARSENAL. Grave Charges Laid Against Driggs-Seabury Gun Company.

New York, March 23 .- According to a Washington special to the Tribune the American Ammunition company has instituted an action against the Driggs-Seabury Gun and Ammunition compa ny, of New Jersey, in which the charge is made that the ordnance bureau in August, 1899, permitted the Driggs-Seabury company, a private concern, to use the Frankford arsenal, a government institution near Philadelphia, with its power, machinery and workmen, for the purpose of manufacturing guns and ammunition for the Colombian govern-ment. The brief filed by the lawyers contained a copy of the following let-

(Signed) ELIHU ROOT, "Secy. of War."

The lawyers' brief further alleges that Gen. A. R. Buffington, chief of the ordnance bureau, had asserted statement on file in the war department, that he granted the use of Frankford arsenal to the Driggs-Seabury company for the purpose named and it is demanded that the controller of the treasury immediately stop all payments to the Driggs-Seabury pany until the charges have been investigated. It is also held that the company by this alleged action is under penalty to the government to the amount of $800,000.

Little information could be obtained at the war department regarding these allegations. Secretary Root was not accessible to newspaper men and Gen. Buffington denied himself to all re-porters. His assistants united in declaring that there was nothing in the matter. Maj. V. McNally, assistant chief of ordnance, said last night that an attempt was being made to make a mountain out of a mole hill.

TEACHERS WILL BE NOTIFIED.

Their Contracts Will Terminate on April 19th.

In That Event the Contracts Will be Renewed - Board Trades for the Armstrong Lot on State Street.

The school board today issued notices to the teachers that their contracts will termina on April 19, with the reservation that if the board is able to raise the funds the schools will be continued to the end of the term. This action was decided on at the board meeting last night, because the Governor had not signed the bill increasing the school tax; and the board was afraid to defer the notice any longer. It is said that the Governor is still undecided whether or not to approve the

Before Mr. Moyle's resolution was considered he wished the minutes amended so as to show that he had introduced the same resolution on Thursday night. Critchlow opposed it, but Moyle carried his point and the minutes were so amended.

When the resolution was taken up Critchlow was the first one to bear down on it. He said it was inopportune, that it ought to be deferred until today or the first of next week, in order to give the Governor time to act on the tax bill. He moved that the resolution be tabled. Young supported him, saying that there was no necessity for hurried action. Moyle contended, however, that the board had delayed long ever, that the board had delayed long enough. The law required it to give the teachers thirty days notice, and if action were deferred until Monday it would be too late. If the funds can be raised, said he, the schools can go on, and if they cannot be raised the board is protected by giving notice in time. Giauque thought it the duty of the board to notify the teachers, urging that the Governor's signature to the bill was not all that was required. bill was not all that was required. The question that would then come up

The question that would then come up would be how to raise the funds. Critchlow expressed himself again, saying that he did not hope to change the minds of those who wanted the schools closed as soon as possible. He said that while the funds in the bank would be exhausted on April 19th, it was the duty of the board to keep the schools running as long as the board schools running as long as the board had credit. The board, said he, had two sources to draw from, its cash in the bank and its credit. The board could borrow money very reasonably without expense. The schools should be kept open until compelled to close, and that would not be until the board's credit was exhausted.

Moyle said that the resolution did not mean the closing of schools necessar-ily but was only to put the board on the safe side if such had to be done. He avowed that the members who supported the resolution were as anxious to keep the schools running as those who opposed it. He further said that it would be a question whether the extra tax would be available even if the Governor signed the bill. The resolution was adopted the two opposing it being Critchlow and Young. Geoghegan submitted a resolu-ion proposing to ask the proposing to permission people for borrow money. He expressed the sentiment that the board should not commit itself to the pernicious principle of borrowing against next year's revenue The resolution which was defeated was

"Whereas, A financial condition exists in our school affairs which, unless relieved, will compel the closing of our schools on or about April 19th; and "Whereas, The law provides a means for obtaining the necessary relief; "Whereas, The board of education can borrow without interest such a sum as will be necessary to complete our school year; therefore, be it "Resolved, That the board of education, in accordance with the provisions of chapter 13, section 2 of the school laws, submit to the people at a special election to be held on the 9th day of April, 1901, a proposition to authorize the board of education to create an indebtedness of $37,000 or such other sum, more or less, as may be necessary to continue our school year to Moyle said that he would be willing to go before the people if the Governor-failed to sign the tax bill. Critchiow was willing to go before the when it became necessary, which he thought would not be until next No-

When the resolution had been disposed of Clerk Moreton estimated that $28,184 was available on March 1st for the weekly rate of $4,404 for teachers' salaries it would require $20,828 to keep the schools open until April 20th. The matter of the trading of the north State street school site was then taken up. The decision was made to accept the Armstrong proposition on recommendation of the committee buildings and grounds. Critchlow voted against, explaining for doing so that he was insufficiently informed.

On motion of Critchlow the committee was authorized to negotiate with Phoebe Kimball for an exchange of a portion of the Armstrong lot for her lot on the north. It is expected that Mrs. Kimball will readily consent to the trade rather than be in the rear
